FRESHER’S PARTY

Two weeks into a new phase of life at LIBA and the batch of F13 was yet to know the special elements that make LIBA a home away from home. The initial enthusiasm of the new batch was boosted by the eagerness to be a part of the various committees. The ‘Signature Campaign’, which is LIBA’s traditional prelude to the Fresher’s party had not just managed to break the ice between the seniors and juniors, but had resulted in quite a few friendships as well. The last night of the month of June was planned to be the Fresher’s Night, where F13 would be formally inducted into the LIBA fold.

With a brilliant theme for the evening like Hawaii, the atmosphere was meant to be candid. The batch of F13 left no stone unturned to be as Hawaiian in their attires and the relaxed Hawaiian mind-sets had descended on the night. The traditional Hawaiian wear was on display, as also were the talents of the batch of F13. There was scintillating singing, dancing and other performances from the new batch as also from the stalwarts of F12. The best aspect however was the bonding between the F12 (seniors) and the F13 (juniors) batch, leading to an enthusiastic buzz in the otherwise serene campus.
